Pope's Message

Dear brothers and sisters

God never abandons his children, never. Even when our age advances and our powers decline when our hair grows white and our role in society lessens when our lives become less productive and can risk appearing useless. God does not regard appearances (cf. 1 Sam 16:7); he does not disdain to choose those who, to many people, may seem irrelevant. God discards no stone; indeed, the "oldest" is the firm foundation on which "new" stones can rest, to join in erecting a spiritual edifice (cf. 1 Peter 2:5).

Sacred Scripture as a whole is a story of the Lord's faithful love. It offers us the comforting certainty that God constantly shows us his mercy, always, at every stage of life, in whatever situation we find ourselves, even in our betrayals. The Psalms are filled with the wonder of the human heart before God who cares for us despite our insignificance (cf. Ps 144:3-4); they assure us that God has fashioned each one of us from our mother's womb (cf. Ps 139:13) and that even in hell he will not abandon our life (cf. Ps 16:10). We can be certain, then, that he will be close to us also in old age, all the more because, in the Bible, growing old is a sign of blessing.

At the same time, in the Psalms we also find this heartfelt plea to the Lord: "In my old age do not abandon me" (cf. Ps 71:9). Words that are strong, even crude. They make us think of the extreme suffering of Jesus, who cried out on the cross: "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" (Mt 27:46).

In the Bible, then, we find both the certainty of God's closeness at every stage of life and the fear of abandonment, particularly in old age and in times of pain. There is no contradiction here. If we look around, we have no difficulty seeing that its words reflect an utterly evident reality. All too often, loneliness is the bleak companion of our lives as elderly persons and grandparents. Often, when I was Bishop of Buenos Aires, I would visit rest homes and realize how rarely those people received visits. Some had not seen their family members for many months.

There are many reasons for this loneliness: in many places, above all in the poorer countries, the elderly find themselves alone because their children are forced to emigrate. I think too of the many situations of conflict. How many of the elderly are left alone because men - youths and adults - have been called to battle, and women, above all women with small children, have left the country in order to ensure safety for their children. In cities and villages devastated by war, many elderly people are left alone; they are the only signs of life in areas where abandonment and death seem to reign supreme. In other parts of the world, we encounter a false belief, deeply rooted in certain local cultures, that causes hostility towards the elderly, who are suspected of using witchcraft to sap the vital energies of the young; when premature death or sickness, or any other misfortune strike the young, the guilt is laid at the door of some elderly person. This mentality must be combatted and eliminated. It is one of those groundless prejudices from which the Christian faith has set us free, yet which continues to fuel generational conflict between the young and the elderly.

Yet if we think about it, this accusation that the elderly "rob the young of their future" is nowadays present everywhere. It appears under other guises even in the most advanced and modern societies. For example, there is now a widespread conviction that the elderly are burdening the young with the high cost of the social services that they require, and in this way are diverting resources from the development of the community and thus from the young. This is a distorted perception of reality. It assumes that the survival of the elderly puts that of the young at risk, that to favour the young, it is necessary to neglect or even suppress the elderly. Intergenerational conflict is a fallacy and the poisoned fruit of a culture of conflict. To set the young against the old is an unacceptable form of manipulation: "What is important is the unity of the different ages of life, which is the real point of reference for understanding and valuing human life in its entirety" (Catechesis, 23 February 2022).

The Psalm cited above – with its plea not to be abandoned in old age – speaks to a conspiracy surrounding the life of the elderly. This may seem an exaggeration, but not if we consider that the loneliness and abandonment of the elderly is not by chance or inevitable, but the fruit of decisions – political, economic, social and personal decisions – that fail to acknowledge the infinite dignity of each person, "beyond every circumstance, state or situation the person may ever encounter" (Declaration Dignitas Infinita, 1). This happens once we lose sight of the value of each individual and people are then judged in terms of their cost, which is in some cases considered too high to pay. Even worse, often the elderly themselves fall victim to this mindset; they are made to consider themselves a burden and to feel that they should be the first to step aside.

Then too nowadays many women and men seek personal fulfilment in a life as independent as possible and detached from other people. Group memberships are in crisis and individualism is celebrated: the passage from "us" to "me" is one of the most evident signs of our times. The family, which is the first and most radical argument against the notion that we can save ourselves by ourselves, has been one of the victims of this individualistic culture. Yet once we grow old and our powers begin to decline, the illusion of individualism, that we need no one and can live without social bonds, is revealed for what it is. Indeed, we find ourselves needing everything, but at a point in life when we are alone, no longer with others to help, with no one whom we can count on. It is a grim discovery that many people make only when it is too late.

Solitude and abandonment have become recurrent elements in today's social landscape. They have multiple roots. In some cases, they are the result of calculated exclusion, a sort of deplorable "social conspiracy"; in others, tragically, a matter of an individual's personal decision. In still other cases, the elderly submit to this reality, pretending that it is their free choice. Increasingly, we have lost "the taste of fraternity" (Fratelli Tutti, 33); we find it difficult even to think of an alternative.

In many older persons we can observe the sense of resignation described in the Book of Ruth, which tells the story of the elderly Naomi who, after the death of her husband and children, encourages her two daughters-in-law, Orpah and Ruth, to return to their native towns and their homes (cf. Ruth 1:8). Naomi – like many elderly people today – is afraid of remaining alone, yet she cannot imagine anything different. As a widow, she knows that she is of little value in the eyes of society; she sees herself as a burden for those two young woman who, unlike herself, have their whole lives before them. For this reason, she considers it best to step aside, and so she tells her young daughters-in-law to leave her and to build a future in other places (cf. Ruth 1:11-13). Her words reflect the rigid social and religious conventions of her day, which apparently seal her own fate.

The biblical narrative then presents us with two different responses to Naomi's words and to old age itself. One of the two daughters-in-law, Orpah, who loves Naomi, kisses her and, accepting what seemed the only solution possible, goes her way. Ruth, however, does not leave Naomi's side and, to her surprise, tells her: "Do not press me to leave you" (Ruth 1:16). Ruth is not afraid to challenge customs and inbred patterns of thought. She senses that the elderly woman needs her and she courageously remains at her side in what will be the start of a new journey for both. To all of us, who are accustomed to the idea that solitude is our unavoidable lot, Ruth teaches that in response to the plea "Do not abandon me", it is possible to say, "I will not abandon you". Ruth does not hesitate to subvert what seemed to be an irreversible situation: living alone need not be the only alternative! Not by chance, Ruth – who remained at the side of the elderly Naomi – was an ancestor of the Messiah (cf. Mt 1:5), of Jesus, Immanuel, "God with us", the one who brings God's own closeness and proximity to all people, of all ages and states of life.

Ruth's freedom and courage invite us to take a new path. Let us follow in her footsteps. Let us set out with this young foreign woman and the elderly Naomi, and not be afraid to change our habits and imagine a different kind of future for our elderly. May we express our gratitude to all those people who, often at great sacrifice, follow in practice the example of Ruth, as they care for an older person or simply demonstrate daily closeness to relatives or acquaintances who no longer have anyone else. Ruth, who chose to remain close to Naomi, was then blessed with a happy marriage, a family, a new home. This is always the case: by remaining close to the elderly and acknowledging their unique role in the family, in society and in the Church, we will ourselves receive many gifts, many graces, many blessings!

On this Fourth World Day devoted to them, let us show our tender love for the grandparents and the elderly members of our families. Let us spend time with those who are disheartened and no longer hope in the possibility of a different future. In place of the self-centred attitude that leads to loneliness and abandonment, let us instead show the open heart and the joyful face of men and women who have the courage to say "I will not abandon you", and to set out on a different path.

Bishop's Message

Dear Rev. Fathers, Religious and People of God,

The month of August brings to us two important celebrations: the Assumption of Blessed Mother and the Independence of our Mother India. On 15th of August, we celebrate the glorious taking up into heaven, body and soul, of Our Blessed Mother Mary. In union with all Catholics on earth, we rejoice on this solemnity of our Mother. As God had preserved her from the corruption of sin, so he preserved her from the corruption of the grave two. He took her up into heaven. Waiting for the final resurrection of all bodies on the last day is a punishment for original sin. Mary was kept untouched by original sin and the corruption that follows it.

It was fitting that she who, in giving birth to the Saviour, had preserved her virginity unspotted should keep her body incorrupt even after death. It is fitting that she who had borne the Creator as a child in her bosom should have a dwelling place with God. It was fitting that she who had shared in the sacrifice of her Son on the cross should also share in his glory. It is right and just that the handmaid of God should be honoured as the Queen of heaven.

Mary is blessed because she heard the Word of God and kept it. Mary is blessed because she trusted in the Lord's words. Mary is blessed because she is the humble handmaid of the Lord. She submits herself in everything perfectly to God. She says YES to him in all things. That is the secret of her greatness and holiness. Mary's Assumption is her perfect fulfillment, the fruit of her humility, obedience and love. It is also divine acknowledgement of her perfect conformity with Jesus the Lord.

Our mother church declares Mary as the model for all Christians. She is our model insofar as she was perfect in everything. Death never conquered her; Sin never conquered her. She showed to the world the sacredness and the eternal destiny of the human body. Today India our dear Motherland celebrates the anniversary of her Independence- freedom from the slavery under foreign domination. It is of no small significance that she won her freedom on the feast of Assumption of Our Blessed Mother. Let us be united in prayer for our leaders and the citizens of our nation. When we pray to Our Mother in heaven, let us remember Mother India. May God bless you all and our nation.

With God's manifold blessings, Yours devotedly in Christ

DIRECTOR FIELD VISIT TO UWFT - SELF HELP GROUP'S

The UWFT Managing Trustee Rev. Fr. M. Tellis Roch visited some of the Self-Help Groups in the regions at Coimbatore, Anaimalai, Pollachi, and Kinathukadavu. During the visit he had discussions regarding the Self-Help groups, years of experience, savings, internal lending of loans and repayments, book keeping, etc., and additionally, he gathered information to create an employment opportunity related to the nature of work in their respective places to make an income generation plan in the future. He appreciated all the members for managing the self-help groups effectively.

DOMESTIC WORKERS MEETING DOMESTIC WORKERS COORDINATION MEETING

Coimbatore Multipurpose Social Service Society (CMSSS) jointly organized the meeting with Tamil Nadu Domestic Workers Welfare Trust (TNDWWT) at St Mother Teresa Animation Center, Bishop House Campus on 20th July 2024 at 3.00 pm. CMSSS Director Fr. Tellis Roch, Sr. Valarmathi, TNDWWT, Mr. Krishnamoorthi, CITU Secretary of Coimbatore District, and more than 200 domestic workers participated in the meeting.

The gathering was welcomed by CMSSS staff, Mrs. Amalie Lawerence. The guests were felicitated with Shawl by the CMSSS Director. Sr. Valarmathi gave an introductory address at the gathering. There are more than 2,00,000 women domestic workers in Chennai. Among them, only 80,000 workers are registered in the union. Likewise, in Coimbatore there are also more domestic workers in number, but they were not enrolled in the union. Everyone should enroll in the union by paying Rs.60/- rupees as an annual subscription. Once registered, workers can benefit with educational scholarships for children, marriage stipend, old age pension, and one-time health assistance. Also, she insisted on demanding that the government fix their wages to 100 rupees per hour through the union by showing the worker's solidarity to get their rights.

In the chief guest's address, Mr. Krishnamoorthy said that domestic workers are not recognized like other non-sector labour. They are discriminated against for their work based on caste, and they are still facing many problems like sexual harassment, lack of working hours and not getting proper wages for their work. These workers should start their union with legal procedures to get their rights and welfare measures. For establishing their union, CITU will always be with them to support their demands of the government.
